

To Whom It May Concern:

We are very unhappy to hear that the Federal government would possibly lessen or eliminate the restrictions set in the Indiana law controlling telephone privacy/solicitations. The FCC or any other federal agency should not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections. Prior to the Indiana law taking effect, we received literally hundreds of unwanted telephone solitations every month. Many of the calls were computer malfunctions that would transfer the call incorrectly and then drop the call. There was no way to find out which companies were making these calls and no way to inform them we wanted to eliminated from their phone list. Since the law has taken effect we receive virtually no phone solicitations with the exception of a few charities and police organizations. Please log our comment that we would be very unhappy with change to our current telephone privacy law.
